

NEW BOOK COMING SOON!

Haunted Butler County, Ohio

By Daniel D. Schneider

About the Book

Butler County has a long and storied history with some spooky twists. When European settlers arrived, they found not only Native settlements but also earthworks that remain a mystery—as are the strange lights still seen near them. The disturbed spirit of a frontier soldier roams the basement of the Soldiers, Sailors and Pioneers Monument, and Busenbark is haunted by the Hatchet Man, who committed his crimes 175 years ago. At Miami University, the ghost of Helen Peabody wanders the building that bears her name. Just outside of town, many drive to see the Oxford Ghost Light, and a weekend visit to the Screaming Bridge of Maud-Hughes Road is a high school rite of passage. Hamilton native and owner of an actual haunted house Daniel D. Schneider explores the terrifying train tracks, creepy canals, scary streets and bewitched bridges of Butler County.

About the Author

Butler County native Daniel D. Schneider is a registered landscape architect, planner and 3D designer with a lifelong love of history. He has traveled extensively and has visited many famously haunted sites in the United States and Europe. He also happens to live in a haunted house. Daniel is a member of many local historical societies and serves on multiple historic and community boards. In his professional life, he has used his designs to drive public interest in saving the Historic Hamilton Train Station from demolition. In 2021, Dan founded Hollow Earth Creative, a design studio in Hamilton.
